Paris Laughs Again
Eyes Taped 23 Days
Marrying Hap-Hazard
$15 a Word, and Cheap
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PARIS having had his fling, "Reds" and "Royals" having shot each other sufficiently, and denounced the republic, have gone to bed.

The republic goes on as it will do, for many a year, barring Fascism. Seventy-one-year-old Gaston Doumergue takes the reins, and is apparently welcomed in Paris.

Uncle Sam is steadily increasing his gold reserve. He had more of it yesterday, figured in dollars, than he ever had before, so he also is happy.

Edward G. Bremer, young bank president of St. Paul, 36 years old, kidnapped and seriously wounded about the head, his eyes kept closed with adhesive tape for 22 days, is released. His father paid a ransom of $200,000 in $5 and $10 bills, which weighed 50 pounds and filled two cardboard suit boxes. United States detectives are looking for "ten or twelve kidnapers."

Repeat of prohibition has discouraged bootleggers, but will probably promote kidnapping.

J. H. Blumensohn, of Columbia University, sent to Brazil by the Rockefeller Foundation, found interesting Indians called the Kaingang tribe. These Indians solve one of civilization's problems by marrying both the daughter and the mother, so mother-in-law difficulty there.

In former times the Indians practiced extensive polygamy and group marriage, several men and several women being married to each other, at the same time.

There is no marriage ceremony, and when the Kaingang kill each other, in family feuds, divorce quarrels or for other numerous reasons, there is no punishment provided. Also there is no moral code.

The good will be glad to hear that the tribe is dying out, not expected to last long.

Charles Dickens wrote a life of Christ. In 14,000 words, for his children. They would not sell it or allow it to be published. Now the last is dead, and the brief manuscript sells for fifteen dollars a word, $210,000, not including the original itself, in Dickens' handwriting. Manuscript itself will sell for a big price some day. Dickens could not have imagined all this when he was a young, struggling writer in London.

In Chicago, Protestant clergymen, answering a questionnaire by the school of education of Northwestern University, decide by an overwhelming vote, that God does not "send storms, earthquakes and other disasters to punish people for their sins." It was already known, without asking anybody, that God does not send comets to the earth to wipe it out, since those comets go on regular fixed errands. More money was wasted in old days, ringing church bells to drive away storms, and the devil supposed to ride on them.

Seventy-four per cent of the clergymen said God does not keep a big book with a record of all our wicked deeds in it. That may relieve you considerably.

And 20 per cent believe there is a hell where you actually burn up. That would relieve many of us completely. Protestantism has changed since old Puritan days, when the fortunate, saved and in Heaven, were said to find their happiness greatly increased by being made to look down and see friends and relatives burning in hell.

How little a rabbit knows about rats, and the higher the intelligence that controls it. Volcanic eruptions killed small rats on Alaska's Kotai, after Mt. Katmai exploded, more than 20 years ago, all rabbits vanished.

The government CWA money has been spent driving Indians to drive tens of thousands of rabbits into traps. They are caught alive, and sent to the strictest island. When they get there they probably say to themselves: How slow of Uncle Sam to take all this trouble for us."

The fact is that they are sent to provide food for bears, and for the more valuable fur-bearing animals. How could the rabbits possibly imagine or understand that?

How can we two-legged things hope to imagine, or understand, why it is that we are transported out here from Heaven knows where, and what it is that we

GARAGE MAN GRILLED IN TEACHER PUZZLE

Prosecutor Will Quiz Pastor; Father of Girl Ward Heard

Elton Travis, night manager of a Somerville garage, who found the looted handbag of the missing Medford schoolgirl, Miss Alice T. Quinn, was questioned by Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop and state detectives to day.

He was one of three who went to the prosecutor's office for interrogation in an effort to solve the baffling disappearance of the schoolgirl, who dropped from sight Sunday night after receiving a $20,000 extortion demand and threat, and writing a note indicating her fear of an impending tragic happening.

TWO SHED NO LIGHT

The others questioned were Edward H. Fuller, Manchester, N. H., civil engineer and father of Miss Quinn's ward, and Howard Tait of Somerville. Neither of the last two was able to aid in the probe or advance any suggestion to account for Miss Quinn's disappearance.

Bishop hoped that something of importance might develop from the questioning of Travis.

Travis reported finding Miss Quinn's purse in the boiler room of his father's garage at 2 Mystic ave., Somerville, at 3 a. m. Monday, several hours after the retired teacher vanished under circumstances which may mean foul play, suicide, or a deliberate withdrawal from the community in which she lived to start life anew elsewhere.

THREATENS ARREST

Travis was late arriving for questioning. A court officer was first sent for him with a summons and when he still did not appear, Bishop telephoned him and said he would send a warrant for him if he did not voluntarily come in.

Travis pleaded illness and said he did not want to leave the house.

Fuller, rather of Dorothy Fuller, 18, Lassell street, who was one of the last to see the last to see Miss Quinn, told the district attorney he formerly lived in Medford.

SIX OUT SHIP, BATTLE ICE TO SHORE

Coast Guards Row Out to Meet Crew of a Sinking Schooner

Eastham, Feb. 9.—Seamanship and grim heroism brought the six-man crew of the ice-coated, gale-battered schooner, Sophia, safe to shore today through heavy surf at Nauset sands.

With their little vessel sinking under them, Skipper John Penbody and his men succeeded in launching a dory and abandoning while three-quarters of a mile off shore.

The Sophia, swept by mountainous seas, could just be seen from the lookout tower of the Nauset Coast Guard station.

The schooner's crew attempted the perilous feat of going overboard into the icy sea, but were rescued by heavy surf and the men were hauled ashore by the Nauset crew.

Both 100-ft. shots succeeded.

The Sophia's crew, in a cockleshell dory half swamped by heavy seas, were hauled ashore by the Nauset crew.

Many Hurt Battling Blazes

An epidemic of fires, ascribed to overheated chimneys or furnaces, kept firemen in Boston and suburbs in the jump early today and drove scores of men, women and children into the bitter cold.

Many firemen and policemen were treated for frostbite. Ladderman John Moran of 106 Barnard st., East Boston, is at the East Boston Relief Hospital with badly frozen hands and legs.

A two-alarm fire swept the six-family dwelling, at 7 Chelsea place, Boston, driving out 30 people and causing damage of $2000. The blaze started in the basement, working through to the roof and filling the house with smoke, through which occupants fought their way, or were assisted by firemen and policemen. John Russett, 4, confined with rheumatic fever to his bed on the fourth floor, was rescued by Serg. George Gaudin and Officers Michael Burns and Frank Delaney.

The cause was not determined. It was in fighting the blaze that Morin's hands were badly frozen.

There were two fires in Roxbury, both from overheated chimneys, at 42 Hobart st., where ten persons were driven out, and at 28 Van St.

MAL SLAYING UP MYSTERY

Chasles police were confronted with a baffling death mystery this afternoon when they found the fully-clothed body of a man immersed in a tub of water, with a wooden bucket jammed over the head.

Bloody newspapers and a stained handkerchief were in the kitchen floor, adjoining the bath. But there were no apparent marks of violence on the body.

The victim, who they believe is a murder, may be a fantastic suicide, was Julius Shymko, 41, a widow, of 38 Poplar st. He lived with his seven-year-old son, Julius, at 38 Poplar st.

CHARLESTOWN TRUST TO PAY

Depositors in the savings department of the plumed Charlestown Trust Co. received some warning news today to temper the cold grip when James H. Brennan, chairman of the depositors' committee, announced that the 10,000 depositors in the savings department will have been paid in full before the end of the year.

Brennan's announcement came after a conference with Leo M. Harlow, liquidating agent of the bank.

Before June the savings department depositors will receive an additional dividend of about 20 per cent, bringing their total payment to 100 per cent, as they have already received 80 per cent, or about $1,000,000.

Brennan also announced that, because the end of the year, an additional dividend of about 20 per cent, bringing their total payment to 100 per cent, as they have already received 80 per cent, or about $1,000,000.

Huge Icebergs Off Cape Cod

For the first time since the severely cold winter of 1917-18, three icebergs were sighted today as they drifted past Monomoy Point, the long sand finger that juts into the Atlantic from the south side of Cape Cod.

Coast Guards said one of the bergs was 75 feet long and projected 15 or 20 feet above the water. The others were smaller.

After battling a heavy snow storm for hours, the Canard liner Mauritania, bearing Gov. Ely and Collector Joseph A. Maynard of the port of Boston from a southern cruise, reached Ambrose Light at the entrance to New York harbor this afternoon.

The vessel was then more than three hours overdue and had to remain there, headed into the teeth of the storm, unable to proceed farther up the harbor on account of low visibility. It was considered unlikely the Governor and Collector Maynard would get ashore before.

BILLS READY TO CURB STOCKS

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—A 16,000-word bill proposing stringent federal regulation of stock exchange operations was ready for introduction today as President Roosevelt polished a special message to Congress upon the same subject.

Authors of the projected legislation, describing it as a "blanket" measure, gleaned from two years of study, reported identical measures passed by Congress in both the Senate and House.

The most stringent of the proposals ready for introduction was an absolute prohibition on pool operations, with provision for making them criminal offenses subject to heavy fines and imprisonment.

The bill was understood to deal with other market operations which have led to abuse, including marginal trading, short selling, excess credit for speculative purposes, trading by brokers for their selves and others at the same time.

SANKEY KEEPS WORD TO 'BEAT THE LAW' WITH CHOICE

WHICH DASHES HOPE OF LINK N LINN CASE

Two Neckties Provide His Rope, Handkerchief Gags Any Cry, Kidnap Trial Due Today

St. Paul, Feb. 9 (AP)—Verne Sankey has kept his word to "beat the law." With a noose fashioned from two neckties and with a handkerchief in his mouth to prevent any involuntary cry, he banged himself in his cell at South Dakota penitentiary last night.

When they caught him in Chicago last week, with gun wounds running against him as he lay in a barber chair, he had no chance to use the poison pills hidden in his overcoat. But last night, on the eve of his arraignment in a charge of conspiracy to kidnap Charles Boettcher, 34, of Denver, he "beat the law" with death.

Out of all the blistering company of gang chiefs and "public enemies," Verne Sankey, called "America's Public Enemy No. 1," is the only one of national notoriety to die by his own hand.

PLANNED GUILTY PLEA
The nearest analogy is provided in the case of the Tugboat master, Willie Barker, who killed himself in his cell at St. Paul, Minn., following acquittal on charges grown out of the Hamm kidnapping case.

Sankey announced only a few days ago that he would plead guilty to charges in the Boettcher case today.

The ex-convict-rancher-boogier-kidnaper apparently planned his death carefully. He waited until the two guards on duty in his cell were out of sight, then he knotted the necktie-rope to the bar of the cage, dipped the crude but strong noose about his neck and stepped from his bunk. They found him dead, his body wringing from the bar.

SCHEMES NETTED $60,000
Sankey's brain had engineered schemes that netted him $60,000 in the Boettcher case and $12,000 in the kidnapping of Hazel Robb, of St. Paul, but it was unable to trick the law that snugged his noose on the desperado and flung him into a prison cell.

Sankey's mode of cheating justice had no lure for Gordon Alcorn, a companion, seized in Chicago a day after Sankey.

"It's too late now and take note that way," said Alcorn, who he held in a cell close to that which had been occupied by Sankey.

Alcorn was to have pleaded guilty today, but an inquest into Sankey's death may alter this plan.

With Sankey's passing, the government lost its chance of definitely ascertaining if the former Canadian had any connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping-murder.

LINDBERGH LINK
Department of Justice operatives have declared they believe Sankey had nothing to do with the Lindbergh crime. Melvin H. Purvis, Chicago, Department of Justice agent, refused to comment on the Sankey-Lindbergh angle, but it was known he questioned Sankey about the baby abduction.

M. F. Kinkaid, St. Paul attorney, said he believed, however, that Sankey had been completely removed from the Lindbergh crime picture. He maintained that the notorious phone call to New Jersey, the day after Lindbergh's first child was seized, was made by Sankey.

LINDY CLIPPINGS FOUND
This, together with notes and newspaper clippings on the case found on the Sankey trial, convinced the Lindbergh family that Sankey might have been the man who called with that name.

No notes were left by Sankey.

who apparently had contemplated suicide since last Saturday when he appeared moody, depressed and morose.

An hour before he was found dead he appeared in good spirits and sought to make arrangements to see his wife, Mrs. Fern Sankey, held in lieu of $25,000 bond as a charge of conspiracy to kidnap as a result of the Boettcher abduction.

Sankey had confessed to both the Boettcher and Hamm kidnappings. Alcorn had admitted the Boettcher abduction. With Sankey's death, and Alcorn's imprisonment, all of the gang behind the Boettcher seizure have been brought to justice. Three companions now are serving prison terms for the crime.

MRS. SANKEY HYSTERICAL
Mrs. Sankey became hysterical when told of her husband's death. "Why couldn't I have spoken to him?" she sobbed when Helen Weaver, one of her attorneys, broke the news to her. She screamed for an hour before a nurse could quiet her. A physician was summoned to treat her.

"She is very, very nervous," said Dr. A. Keller, government physician, said later. "But it is quite probable she will be all right."

Mrs. Sankey was asked if she wished to have her children with her. "I don't want them," she cried. "Did you wish them to start immediately?"

"No, No. Not the baby. Not now."

HIGHBALL DEATH OLD IRONSIDES ROMANCE BARRED BATTLE IN

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 9 (AP)—Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, on trial for murder for the alleged highball poison death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, today was directly charged by a state witness with having been the cause of the divorce which Mrs. Bessie B. Kennedy obtained from Dr. Kennedy early in 1933.

Dr. Henry Kennedy, brother of the dead man and state's star witness, made the charge after identifying for the defense 14 love letters written by Dr. Preston Kennedy to Dr. Dean over a number of years.

On red-hot examination, he declared heeding been told that "the letters between Preston and Dr. Dean were," but said that many of the letters he had identified were written when Preston was still living with his wife and baby.

Washington, Feb. 9 (INB)—Angered by his defiance, the Senate this afternoon ordered the immediate physical arrest of former Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. McCracken in order to compel his attendance at a trial for contempt.

The Senate's sergeant of arms, Henry W. Jurney, was instructed to find McCracken and "produce his body" at the bar.

This action insured a court battle, after Frank J. Hogan, McCracken's counsel, intimated he would seek a writ of habeas corpus as soon as Jurney attempts to arrest him.

TRIALS SUSPENDED
Pending McCracken's arrest, the Senate suspended the contempt trial of the three air mail officials cited with him.

Three officials, Col. H. H. Hottel, vice-president of Northwest Airways; Harris M. Hanshue, president of Western Air Express; and Gilbert H. Gilvin, secretary of Western Air Express, were to go on trial, while the Senate acted on McCracken's defiance.

MacCracken's counsel, intimated he would seek a writ of habeas corpus as soon as Jurney attempts to arrest him.

MRS. SANKEY
Mrs. Verne Sankey, wife of the confessed Western kidnaper, was hysterical today after being told that her husband had ended his life in a prison cell.

After the letter was read, Sen. Black (D) of Alabama, chairman of the air mail investigating committee, offered an adjournment.

After Jurney declared it approved the Senate's order to arrest McCracken, he was taken to the Senate.

Bremer Ransom Money That May Trap Gang

BREMER READY TO IDENTIFY 2 OF GANG

Victim Near Collapse as Manhunt Spreads Over Six States

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9 (INB)—Edward G. Bremer can positively identify two of the gang that kidnaped him and held him for 22 days for $200,000 ransom, Chief of Police Thomas E. Dahill revealed today.

Dahill is one of the police officers who have been questioning the banker since he was released.

Announcement of Chief Dahill was the signal for an intensive man hunt in six states for the kidnapers.

Federal agents, in charge of the search for the gang, however, refused to discuss the case except to say they were following all clues.

Bremer remained in the seclusion of his home today and was reported to be on the verge of collapse as an aftermath from his long imprisonment.

No one except police authorities was allowed to see Bremer.

TWO ARE ARRESTED
Two men caught $1800 when they were being questioned by Milwaukee police today (they had any) to determine whether they were Ben Larson, 33, Grand Rapids, Minn., and August Chivert, 34, of Milwaukee. The men said they arrived here last night. Larson had $860 in $5, $10 and $20 bills in the same automobile.

The men said they were in the liquor and slot machine business. They said they carried large sums of money.

There were 10 or 12 members of the gang, Bremer said. He based the estimate on the sound of their voices as they held him captive 32 days. He got no view of any of them, he said, for he was kept alive in a dark room from the time he was kidnaped. January 15 until three men took him in an auto and pushed him blindfolded from the car in Rochester.

During his imprisonment, he said they threatened to kill him if he disobeyed their commands and guards, wearing in relay of 10 men with him constantly.

Communications exchanged with the kidnapers, however, were available to police. It is on these communications and the experience of Walter Magee, the intermediary who delivered the ransom money in $5 and $10 bills—that the officers are basing their search.

It was Magee who received the first note, demanding $200,000 and warning against "bargaining with the law."

Herriot, Petain, Tardieu Named to Save France

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Correspondent
Paris, Feb. 9 (INB)—Heads of a triumvirate, Premier Gaston Doumergue and former Premier Herriot and Andre Tardieu, the strongest French government since the war was definitely organized today and will be presented to President Lebrun before tonight.

In last minute shifting Doumergue decided that Herriot and Tardieu, who previously had been assigned definite cabinet posts, should serve as "ministers without portfolios." Herriot representing the left, or liberal elements and Tardieu, the right or conservative, with Doumergue form a combination calculated to force their will upon parliament and put an end to the national crisis.

It is the closest approach to a dictatorship that France has seen in many a decade.

At the moment the new cabinet was announced the postoffice and telegraph civil employees announced they would refuse to participate in the general strike called for Monday by the Confederation of Labor as a protest against alleged anti-tempt by conservative parties to "facilitate" France.

The confederation had hoped to induce 1,700,000 union workers to walk out for 24 hours.

Another notable figure in the new government is Marshal Henri Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies in the last 18 months of the war.

How the public, torn by civil strife, and the politicians in the Chamber of Deputies will greet this new combination is not yet known. Paris remained calm today though students demonstrated in the Latin Quarter but the police ban on a Communist demonstration set for tonight, fearing new outbreaks.

The Doumergue cabinet, it was announced, will be: Foreign, Louis Barthou; public works, Pierre Etienne Flandin; ex-Premiers Herriot and Tardieu; finance, Louis Germain-Martin; education, Almy Berthod; interior, ex-Premier Albert Sarraut; colonies, ex-Premier Pierre Laval; air, Gen. Desnais; war, Marshal Petain; justice, Henry Cheron; labor, Adrien Marquet; health, Louis Martin.

Emma Goldman Seeks to Stay Here

New York, Feb. 9 (INB)—Emma Goldman, aged anarchist, said today she intended to ask the government for extension of her 90-day passport and that she would like to remain in the United States the rest of her life. However, she said, she would not renounce her citizenship or promise not to speak in public.

Dillinger Fails to Gain Liberty

Crown Point, Ind., Feb. 9 (AP)—John Dillinger failed to obtain his liberty by the habeas corpus route today despite the pleadings of four lawyers.

Judge T. Joseph Sullivan granted the state's motion to quash a writ of habeas corpus sought in behalf of the outlaw, whom the state seeks to execute for the slaying of an East Chicago policeman.

G. O. P. CHARGES CIA ABUSES WITH GRAFT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

Washington, Feb. 9 (INS)—The most savage attack yet made upon administration policies was launched today by the Republican National Committee in a 20-page pamphlet which declared that the CWA is saturated with graft, political favoritism, and waste.

It demanded the CWA experiment be speedily wound up, and asserted that failure to do so "would publicly proclaim what is now being freely stated privately, namely, that the administration intends to use the CWA as a political machine to control the 1934 elections."

"If this should be done," the committee stated, "it would furnish the greatest example of organized venality in history—an attempt to nullify the value of a free electorate by a corrupt, paternalistic organization."

Similarly enough, the Republican attack came almost simultaneously with new congressional appropriations of almost a billion dollars to carry the CWA until May 1, and continue other federal relief projects. The Senate last night voted $500,000 more for these purposes.

The Republican broadside was the gamut of sarcasm and deep indignation.

It accused President Roosevelt of breaking his promise of having the director of the budget pass upon the merits of all future relief projects. It cited his executive order to this effect issued early in January, and the modification of it a few days later.

With pointed sarcasm, the committee demanded to know if the budget director would have approved expenditure of CWA funds to "employ fifty beauty operators and manicurists to ply their arts upon women confined to George Washington public and private charitable institutions."

If the Republican broadside had to pay men for digging little trenches along the waterways in order that the mowers might come in and cut the polypogon; and to pay still others "for teaching classes in contract bridge and tap-dancing."

"The President owes it to the honor of his administration and his own self-respect to wind up the CWA affairs," the committee said.

PHOTOS OF WAR PEACE AND

Chicago, Feb. 8—Gov. Herring, of Iowa, praised the Heart pictures for their courage in publishing the uncensored World War pictures which are now appearing in the Heart newspaper.

"Many people who have seen these pictures find them disturbing and the Heart papers demonstrated great enterprise in the showing of them. The pictures are good for the patient. People must be reminded of past horrors so that by preparation and devotion they can prevent a repetition of those scenes in this country."

"This nation needs air, military and naval defenses second to none. Our borders must be protected, our continued commerce sustained, and our daily lives made safe. Only by a systematic plan of defense building can this be accomplished. The World War pictures do more to awaken in people the need for adequate defense than could any other agency."

Perfume, for instance, is one example of how added charm and expression can be cultivated. Nowadays no smart woman wants to be identified by any single perfume that makes such appearance an uninteresting carbon copy of the last. Perfume should be varied to suit the occasion—a dashing odor when your mood is gay and a delicate fragrance when you want to be seductive.

Harmonizing lipstick and nail lacquer is another recent voice in Hollywood and it's really surprising.

Avoid Sweets to Keep Charm, Warns Beauty

JEAN'S EX SUE FOR DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Feb. 8—She succeeded Jean Harlow as the wife of Charles F. McGrew II, son of a wealthy and prominent Chicago family—now Mrs. Marian Desell Webb McGrew has decided to sue for divorce, in Reno.

This was disclosed by Mrs. McGrew's mother, Mrs. Nellie McGrew, widow of Earl G. Desell, at one time manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

"Yes," said Mrs. Desell, "it is true my daughter plans to seek a divorce from Mr. McGrew. She has been to Reno and, I believe, will file suit as soon as the residence requirements have been met. Incompatibility, I am sure, will be the basis for her suit. My daughter left Mr. McGrew several months ago."

5 Sing Way to Doom in Mass Execution

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Kilby Prison, Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 9 (INS).—"Oh, yes, I'm gwine up, gwine up, gwine all the way, Lord, I'm gwine up, gwine up to see de heavenly lan'..."

Chanting their way into eternity, five cotton field negroes who forsook the simple ways of the Southern rural folk and slew ruthlessly in outbursts of jungle madness went to their death in the grim Kilby prison's electric chair today.

They died in a fervor of religious belief and without murmured complaint on their lips as swift Alabama justice exacted the toll of a life for a life in a mass execution unparalleled in modern times.

5 DIE IN 41 MINUTES

The first of the condemned men walked into the tiny execution cubicles at 12:05 a. m. (C. S. T.), 41 minutes later, their lives snuffed out by recurrent 2000-volt charges of man-made lightning in almost exact ten-minute intervals, the five lay dead in neatly stacked, newly made rough pine coffins in the corridor outside.

Two whose crimes were most brutal, said they were innocent in last-minute statements as the black mask dropped. The others died murmuring farewells.

For twenty hours mournful exclamations of negro spirituals thrilled from the twelvefold cells in "death row" as the doomed men, their faces lifted in religious exultation, moaned their death chant.

"Oh, saints and sinners will-a you go see de heavenly lan'."

"I'm gwine up to heaben 'fo to see my robe, see de heavenly lan'..."

Cries, in melodic waves that rose and fell, that crept through thick walls of concrete and steel to make the prison population, at work in nearby fields, restless, taunt.

Two, whose crimes were most brutal, said they were innocent in last-minute statements as the black mask dropped. The others died murmuring farewells.

For twenty hours mournful exclamations of negro spirituals thrilled from the twelvefold cells in "death row" as the doomed men, their faces lifted in religious exultation, moaned their death chant.

"Oh, saints and sinners will-a you go see de heavenly lan'."

"I'm gwine up to heaben 'fo to see my robe, see de heavenly lan'..."

INSISTS ON INNOCENCE

Ernest Walker, 21, was number four. Earlier in the day he had freely admitted his guilt, the only one of the five to do so. He had killed his girl, Daisy Montgomery, in the state of Alabama, he was wrong in his case.

"Ah, she didn't kill, cap'n," he told a keeper. "Dat 'oman, she ain't nothin' but a nigger."

Walker now was perfectly poised. "Nah, sah, Ah's got nothin' to do with it. I'm innocent."

From the warden, "Ah's said all 'Yah, sah, Good-bye, Cap'n," took two shocks too.

Solomon Roper, 34, was last. "Ya got anything to say, boy?" he asked the prison official, strapping him to the chair.

"Nah, sah. Good-bye, Cap'n," he said.

SPENT HOURS SINGING

Roper was given two shocks. A strap-and, loosened on his chest was seen to move. A doctor thought he still was breathing, and he was given a third shock.

The five spent yesterday singing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," by had hymnized themselves. Their combined voices was so deafening that conversation, even in shouts, was impossible in the corridor of death row.

Thompson killed Henry Bloom, white, in a holdup. Hardie White killed Luther Williams, white, in a holdup. Roper killed his employer, Papa Brader, white, with an axe.

Nix originally had been scheduled to die, but one reprieve, two commutations and one natural death reduced the number to five.

Wedding Climaxes Civil War Romance

Seattle, Feb. 9 (AP)—It's nearly 70 years since the Civil War—but a Lincoln's birthday marriage, in a sense, will climax a Civil War romance.

Daniel A. Reams, 57, and Mrs. Josephine Brasfield, 53, will be married after an acquaintance growing out of their joint membership in the G. A. R. They met seven years ago. Mrs. Brasfield has one son and Reams a son and a daughter.

3 Slayers Die in Texas Chair

Huntsville, Tex., Feb. 9.—Three Negroes went to their deaths in the electric chair at the State Penitentiary here early today for murder committed in Dallas county.

Thurman and Hiram Burley died for their part in the murder of Miss Catherine Prince, last August. Jesse Mott was executed for slaying Jesse Tatum, an oil station employe.

TODAY

At McGraw, New York, four dogs, led by a police dog, amused themselves with a little girl, Joyce Hammond, six years old, but her repeatedly, mangled one of her arms. She is in the hospital. Justice of the Peace A. P. McGraw ordered the dogs held for awhile, to make sure that they were not afflicted with rabies, and then shot.

Clifford beings will scarcely believe it, but from different parts of the country have come earnest appeals: "Please the poor dogs. How can you be so cruel," etc.

New York seems to be the thirteenth State. In 1932 the government collected on the sale of liquor $127,008,015, and New York State alone paid one-third of the amount.

WALSH FAVOR FAIR TAX LEVY ON SALES

By RICHARD DAVID I. WALSH
Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers

Washington, Feb. 8.—I am opposed to general sales taxes as they are imposed in France and which levy a tax every time an article is sold.

I favor a manufacturer's excise or sales tax that exempts necessities of life and levies the tax only upon the article in its finished state, at its wholesale selling price.

Already sales taxes are levied on a limited number of articles. We have singled out for these special Senator Walsh taxes chewing gum, candy, soft drinks, gasoline, automobiles, furs, jewelry, radios, matches, sporting goods, firearms and electricity.

Why single out merely these articles in this limited class? There is, however, present a tax on consumption. Let us extend this consumption tax to include carpets, rugs, expensive garments, high-priced shoes, mahogany and other expensive furniture, china, silverware—in a word a tax upon everything except food and the clothing purchased by the poor.

I submit that of the many arguments that can be advanced in favor of this proposal, the first and foremost is the only method I know of by which we can reach more than a billion dollars of annual income received by the prosperous and wealthy classes who invest in tax-exempt securities.

Secondly, this tax will reach expenditure of a large class of wealthy persons who are living wholly or in part on their capital rather than on their income.

Thirdly, it eliminates discrimination, for a sales tax today is imposed on only a few industries which are burdened with a tax of 8 per cent to 10 per cent of the value of the commodities they produce.

INNES ROOMS WARDSWORTH

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP).—Rep. James W. Wardsworth, Jr., of New York said today he was a candidate "for renomination and re-election to Congress and nothing else," in response to reports linking his name with the 1938 Republican presidential nomination.

Wardsworth read with a broad smile a newspaper dispatch from Miami, Fla., in which Charles J. Innes, executive chairman of the Massachusetts State Republican Committee, called him "the strongest and most available" Republican standard bearer.

"I'm a candidate for renomination and re-election to Congress and nothing else," declared the former senior U. S. Senator, who emerged from a six-year retirement to run for Congress in 1932.

Wardsworth lost his seat in the Senate in 1928, when he was elected New York drys named Franklin W. Christman as an independent in the general election, losing to a split in the Republican ranks. Wardsworth denounced the drys during his wet policies in Congress.

$1 ARMY PLANES CUT PROFITS

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP).—The house military affairs committee was told today that one contractor made such a profit on his Army business that he agreed to sell 50 additional airplanes to the Army for a dollar apiece.

The contractor was the Consolidated Airplane Company of Buffalo, the committee heard. Brig. Gen. T. C. Pratt, in charge of airplane procurement for the Army, said an Army audit in 1932 showed Consolidated had made a total profit of 45.1 per cent, or $705,588, on its Army contracts.

When that was discovered, Pratt added, an official of the company was called into conference with the chief of the air corps and agreed to sell the government 50 additional planes at a cost of $1 each.

"The base contract price on that type of airplane was $6000," the contractor related to the government in the neighborhood of $300,000," Pratt added.

Noted Author and U. S. Ambassador to Italy Under Two Administrations
Washington, Feb. 9.—Government in business!

Any surprise aroused by the proposal that the Federal Government should spend a hundred million dollars to go into the business of erecting and operating tenement houses has been put in the shade by the serious proposal that the Government should set aside $300,000,000 to take over any or all of the entire import and export business of the country.

Stimulated by ex-Senator Brookhart, a senator close to the administration has prepared a bill which was considered with solemn appraisal.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

Nearly a third of a billion dollars, so the bill said, is to be furnished by Uncle Sam to a federal corporation run by three men appointed by the President.

This corporation is to operate warehouses, buy and sell both agricultural and industrial products from or to domestic and foreign traders.

It is to eliminate, so it says, profits and commissions heretofore going to the various agencies of international export and import.

It may borrow, by issuing Government guaranteed bonds, five times its Government-provided capital, so that there will be available for turn-over a billion and a half dollars.

Its profits are to be used to pay back the capital advanced and thereafter go into the Treasury.

The corporation, to distinguish it from any possible competitor, goes tax free.

It can use any unchartered vessels belonging to the United States.

READY TO TAKE HIDE AND HAIR

In a word or two, it provides that Uncle Sam may take over hide and hair all of the foreign business of the United States.

Before arguing whether this is desirable it is well to recognize beforehand that here is Socialism—State Socialism in the most extravagant form, and seriously considered before rejection. The fact that the Government may not do all the foreign export and import business is unimportant since it could in fact, if so desired. Nor is it necessary for the Government to take on all the foreign business in order TO CONTROL ALL THAT BUSINESS by prices and tax-free, subsidized, competitive power.

ONE STEP ONWARD

Those who are against the Government going into business may take note that in these days serious consideration is being given not to the Government going into business but to the proposal that the Government IS business.

So do we step onward in thought toward the corporate state of Mussolini?

Utility Rate Bill Passed by Senate

Washington, Feb. 9 (INS).—The Johnson bill, taking from the federal courts all jurisdiction over utility rate cases, was passed by the Senate this afternoon without a record vote.

The measure would deny federal courts the right and power to enjoin State regulatory commissions, once they render decisions on rate cases.

$55,000 BAZE PERILS SALEM HOME AREA

Salem's worst fire since the 1914 conflagration destroyed a Bridge st. barrel factory early today, spread to a number of old colonial homes in the wealthy Federal st. district and for a time threatened the entire section.

A general alarm brought help from Beverly, Peabody, Danvers and Marblehead, the combined fire forces fighting the flames for hours with temperatures hovering around 20 below zero.

Nearly a score of families were driven from their Federal st. homes, including an 80-year-old woman, who was carried out, and numbers of firemen and policemen suffered from frostbite.

With the fire still burning, although under control, it was impossible to obtain an accurate estimate of the damage, but it was believed to be about $50,000.

The cause was not determined, and an investigation was to be held.

So threatening was the blaze at first that Marshal Michael Harkins called all available police and notified members of the National Fire Guard to be ready for a summons.

The fire broke out in the front of a three-story wooden building, the front of which was a garage, and the fire spread rapidly to the rear.

A new pump from Beverly, hurrying to aid in fighting the blaze, added into an iron pole on the Beverly drawbridge and was put out of commission.

A Boston & Maine engineer at the throttle of a freight engine on the nearby railroad tracks, first discovered the flames in the plant of the American Barrel Co., 290 Bridge st.

The factory, a rectangular three-story wooden building, was soon a mass of flames, fed by large stores of finished barrels and materials in the cooper shop.

Driven by a high wind, embers were soon dropping on the roofs of houses in the old residential Federal st., a short distance away.

Police hurried to the dwelling, arousing occupants and assisting many of them to the homes of friends. Miss Annie Upitis, 80, who was in bed on the second floor of one of the houses, was carried to the nearby office of Dr. Charles L. Curtis.

Another family driven out was that of Capt. Edward Trumbull, father of the famous "Red" Trumbull, member of Charlie Brickley's victorious 1915 Harvard football team, which defeated Yale.

occupants fleeing to the street. Damage was slight in both cases.

A second blaze in East Boston, at 462 Summer st., from an overheated chimney caused $2000 damage and routed 12 persons. Apparatus was called to extinguish a chimney fire at A. Lauby's greenhouse, 18 Pineale rd., Roslindale. In Hyde Park, fire which started from a stove in a one-story store at 64 Business st., forced John Campanella and family to flee from their home at 64A Business st.

A woman, overcome by smoke, was rescued by policemen, and 12 other occupants of the dwelling at 18 Dalby st., Newton, were driven to the street at 6 a. m. by a two-alarm fire.

Mrs. Catherine Nally, 67, fell unconscious in the hallway and was carried out by Patrolmen William Waskan and David Barr. She was taken to Newton Hospital.

The fire started in the cellar. The loss was $5000. The homeless occupants were given shelter by Patrolman Frank Flaherty, who lives next door. He also prepared hot coffee for firemen, who worked in a temperature of 20 below.

The business section of Cohasset was threatened by a two-alarm blaze in Hatter's block, Elm st., for which help was called from Scituate, Hingham, or Cohasset, Brant Rock and Beachwood.

Fireman Green was overcome in Brookline fighting flames which caused two alarms to be sounded in the three-story wooden building, 38 Winchester st. Carl Gaudin, his wife and three children, took to the street, and damage was estimated $10,000.

Fire in a three-story frame dwelling at 2030 Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge, drove out the families of William Merritt, Mrs. Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. Mary Cobb and Manuel Lochell.

GAS EXPLOSION HURTS 2 WOMEN
Springfield, Feb. 9.—A mother and daughter were burned, the latter probably fatally, today when a gasoline stove exploded in the kitchen of their home at 8 Seneca st., Indian Orchard. Both are in Wasson Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Helen Weston, 33, was burned about the face, head and body and her hair singed. At the hospital it was said that she may not recover. Her mother, Mrs. Anna Wyworska, 51, was burned about the arm.

ford near Miss Quinn, and that when his wife died he decided to place his daughter in Miss Quinn's household as a boarder.

During a year, when he had no employment, Fuller said he was unable to pay Dorothy's tuition and Miss Quinn offered to keep her without charge. Later she adopted her.

TO QUESTION PASTOR

Fuller was accompanied to Bishop's office by a son, Vernon. Tatle, whose home is on Powder House bldg., Romeville, was the sole beneficiary under the will of Dorothy Fuller's grandmother, but there was a compromise made after a threat of contest, and Dorothy received $1500.

Bishop said he also intended to question Rev. Eugene D. Dolloff, West Medford Baptist Church pastor and friend of the missing woman, who first expressed the opinion she was a suicide but yesterday admitted foul play, kidnapping or murder, to be more likely.

The district attorney said that although he believed Miss Quinn to be dead, a likely victim of foul play, he had not one iota of evidence to support substantially a murder or suicide theory. This was in contrast to his statement yesterday that he has secret evidence indicating murder.

"We're going along checking every little angle of the case and hope to get somewhere," he said.

SISTER SAYS IT'S EXILE
Mrs. Frank Baxter of Lowell, sister of Miss Quinn and one of the several relatives whose appearance yesterday helped the missing woman's oft-told story that she was born in Virginia and had no kin, expressed the opinion today that Miss Quinn had vanished to begin life anew away from familiar surroundings and old acquaintances, her pride wounded by bankruptcy.

There was a fire scare in Quincy City Hall this morning when smoke filled the structure.

might have led her to take this step.

Mrs. Baxter pointed out that her sister soon before did this, severing all ties with her family, moving to a new community and assuming a new personality, although not changing her name.

The many conflicting and confounding clues might deliberately have been left behind by her in order to throw authorities off the trail.

MISROPS FOUR REASONS

Four things convince Bishop, however, that foul play is the logical theory: (1) Discovery of the $10,000 extortion demand and threat; (2) discovery of a note referring to this threat as a paper in her bag; (3) the finding of her bag in the boiler room of the garage; (4) Miss Quinn's letter to a friend expressing fear of some impending action.

The phrase "I told you I would get even when I got out," with which the threat letter opened, raised the speculation of the authorities. It suggested a convict or an insane person, perhaps one Miss Quinn was instrumental in having committed. The investigation has not disclosed any such person, however.

GAS BLOWS OUT, GIRL OVERCOME

Her endeavor to keep warm in her home at a Sprague st., Charlestown, nearly brought death today by illuminating gas to Miss Julia Hogan, 24, when two burners in a kitchen stove blew out in a draft while she was sleeping.

The fumes filled her bedroom off the kitchen and when her father, John Regan, discovered her unconscious he called police and firemen. Patrolman Elmer E. Crawford and fireman John McDermott of Engine 35, aided by fireman of Ladder 22, tried to revive the girl until the police ambulances arrived and continued their efforts on the way to Haymarket Street Hospital. They were successful just as the hospital was reached.

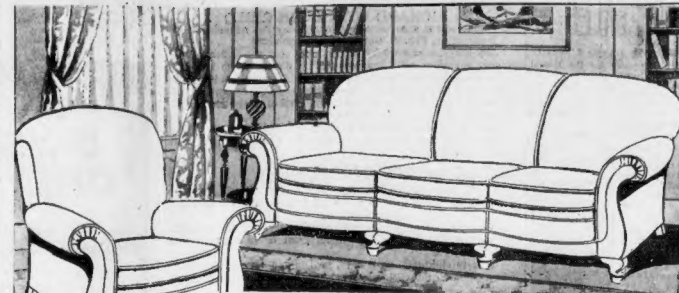

TWO FROZEN AT COHASSET FIRE
Cohasset, Feb. 9.—Fire which destroyed the Sparrell building, Elm st., with a loss of $10,000, brought two casualties.

Fireman Charles Kennedy injured his right knee, when he slipped and fell on ice and the knee froze before he could be taken to Cohasset Hospital. Fire Chief Frank P. Martin's right hand was frozen.

"SELLING CALLS FOR HEALTHY NERVES, TOO—MR. MARKSMAN"

Kenneth B. Logan, Salesman,
of Scarsdale, N. Y., says:

"The selling game calls for healthy nerves just as much as being a wonderful marksman. Meeting people all day long... trying to turn prospects into customers... the life of a salesman certainly tells on the nerves! I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I'll tell you why I say only Camels! Camels don't upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either."

Virgil Richard, Champion
Sharpshooter, says:

"I've been smoking for years and had no trouble in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. Camels are much milder, and never interfere with my nerves."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Does your job sometimes get you down?
Do you feel tired? Ready to "blow up" any minute...because of raw nerves?
Try to get enough sleep. Eat sensibly. And get a fresh slant on your smoking by turning to Camels. Much has been said on the subject of tobacco quality. But—

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

That statement is conclusive. And it represents an important benefit that nervous people should not overlook!

Begin to smoke Camels. Taste those finer tobaccos. Notice their mildness. You will be delighted to find that Camels do not upset your nerves...or tire your taste.

ICE IN HARBOUR TIES UP COAST SHIPPING

Sub-zero weather worked havoc with coastwise shipping today. Harbors all along the New England coast were frozen over, and the sea was covered by a heavy bank of vapor, caused by the contact of the cold air with the warmer water. It made navigation all but impossible.

Meanwhile, all traffic through the Cape Cod Canal was at a standstill because of the mist banks.

Ships that cleared the Buzzards Bay entrance of the canal last night before traffic came to a halt, were able to proceed only a few miles into the Bay because of the vapor.

VINEYARD SHIPS HALTED
The steamer Marquette's Vineyard was unable to get out of the Nantucket harbor on her run to Woods Hole because of the ice-choked waters. Her sister ship, the Nantucket, was held at Marquette Vineyard by the dense vapor clouds.

Despite the efforts of the coast guard, which was breaking ice along the entire shore line, the harbors of Lynn, Weymouth and Hingham were frozen over. It was the first time in the memory of the oldest men on the Lynn water front that the harbor has frozen over there.

In Boston Harbor tugs were breaking ice between the Common, wealth Pier and Fish Pier. This is said to be the first time in the history of the city that such a necessary service as the structure were built. Further north, at Nahant, the Narrows Gauge ferries reported much slush ice.

RAILROADS FIGHT COLD
The railroads faced somewhat better than coastwise shipping. At North station, trains were leaving on schedule and most arrivals were on time. Trains from Montreal, real, however, were two hours late, and the Nova Scotian was an hour behind.

Trains from Washington, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh were an hour and a half late at the South station. Other trains were slightly behind schedule. Trains were on time.

Just as Washington officials were planning to send mail and supplies to ice-blocked islands off the Maine coast, word was received here that the steamer North Haven had succeeded in battling her way to the Penobscot Bay island communities of Wiscasset, Bangor, and Swans Island, all ice-bound since Monday.

STORM SWEEPS NORTH EUROPE

Berlin, Feb. 8 (AP)—A near-hurricane swept Germany and Scandinavia last night and today, killing several persons and injuring scores.

Three were known to be dead in addition to an undetermined number of sailors drowned when the fishing vessel, Condor, sank with all hands on board in the English Channel.

Berlin and Vienna Sea shipping was driven to harbor. Widespread damage was caused by the storm. Hamburg, Bremen and Stettin all reported heavy damage. One person was killed by a falling smokestack at Stettin.

"Hot T & J's" Set New Record With Cold

If this cold wave keeps up, a lot of interesting discoveries may be found to be made, but none more startling than the fact that a lot of Bostonians are putting themselves on the back—or stomach—today over the revival of the ancient "Hot Tom & Jerry."

In case you don't remember back that far, the T & J was a favorite cold-killer in the "good old days." At the Touraine bar in 1918 one cold as many as 174 in one cold day.

But hearken to this—it's an all-time record, probably only to be shattered today.

M. J. Jacques, maître d'hôtel of the Touraine, announced today that 235 hot T & J's were sold during the two hours yesterday, and that was virtually all day.

TWO'S AVERAGE LIMIT
That's a lot of service. Paul Whelan, who also is a waiter at the Touraine, says that the average capacity of any given citizen is two Toms and Jerrys.

Now take another citizen who is a citizen who is testing his capacity and divide them into 235, and you still have a lot of citizens none of whom mind the cold.

You might be curious as to the contents of this specific. In fact, you must be curious. We aim to please, and here is a recipe for the recipe.

AND THEN—UM, UM!
Now you heat a mug. Then you mix a spoonful of sugar into the previous mixture. Take a spoonful of sugar into the previous mixture. Take a spoonful of sugar into the previous mixture.

ICE TRAPS SHIP IN PIER FIRE

Providence, Feb. 8—Firemen battled desperately here today trying to save the British oiler Baron Nairn and several Texas oil company tankers, which were caught in the wharf of the Curran-Burton cold docks.

Two firemen, Joseph Downs and George Denberg, nearly lost their lives when the ice in the frozen Providence River went way. Both were in serious condition from shock and immersion.

The fire is believed to have started in the oiler itself, when the crew tried to thaw out frozen pipes. Flames quickly leaped to the wooden docks.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9 (AP)—Seven persons were overcome today by ill-fated gas. They were taken to their homes in North Philadelphia.

Providence, Feb. 8—Firemen battled desperately here today trying to save the British oiler Baron Nairn and several Texas oil company tankers, which were caught in the wharf of the Curran-Burton cold docks.

Two firemen, Joseph Downs and George Denberg, nearly lost their lives when the ice in the frozen Providence River went way. Both were in serious condition from shock and immersion.

The fire is believed to have started in the oiler itself, when the crew tried to thaw out frozen pipes. Flames quickly leaped to the wooden docks.

GREATER BOSTON GOES TO WAR

Our Soldiers Over Here, Over There
as Recorded for History by Camera

COUNT THE MEN—There are 11 in the picture, members of the 103d Field Artillery, shown with "Bess," the sniping "177" of Chateau Thierry. And 20 minutes after the picture was snapped, eight of these men were killed and two wounded by a German shell. Father William Farrell and Capt. William Ames reloaded undamaged "Bess" and continued firing at advancing German troops. Each, as a result, won the Croix de Guerre.

CALLED!—Registering for the selective draft in Boston in early 1918. A scene duplicated in every city and town and whistle crossroads in the nation. The call went out: "To arms!" The response was an endless line of dapper men from every walk of life. They registered here, were examined, passed on into the soldier's uniform or were rejected. Few failed to answer.

BADGE OF HONOR—Some came home without any Croix de Guerre but with a "decoration" to be worn for life, never to be packed away. Here is a maimed hero back from France—every homecoming transport bore them—being taught to prepare to make his own living with a writing device attached to his arm in place of the hand he lost in battle.

OFF ON VACATION?—No, off to war. You never could tell from the smiles and the jokes when the recruits entrained for camps in the days of 1917 that they were bound for the front to be tiny cogs in a awful machine called war that ground out, daily, its grist of death and suffering and horror. Here was high adventure linked with duty, a combination that challenged the youth of America. Entraining scene at the South Station.

CHAPLAIN AND CAPTAIN—

Here they are, Father Farrell and Capt. Ames, beloved of the 26th Division. This picture was snapped at Chateau Thierry some time before their decoration by France. The beloved chaplain came home from France bearing the scars of war and his passed on to whatever reward awaits courage and gallantry and devoted service in the hereafter. A memorial service was held for him a few days ago. Capt. Ames is Dr. William Ames, practicing physician in Boston.

WHAT'S YOURS, BUDDY?—

The postman was always a welcome caller at Camp Devens in the training days of 1917 but he never received a heartier greeting than on Christmas Day when he landed in camp with several tons of mail. The boys are shown giving the Christmas presents of a buddy the "squeezing test." If it squeezed like cake, it vanished quickly.

BEFORE THE BATTLE—Here's Boston's own D Co., of the 101st Infantry, snapped near the "Rouge Bouquet," the Argonne, before it moved up to battle. Figure No. 1 is Michael J. Perkins, one of Boston's outstanding heroes. He was killed when an ambulance in which he was being transported back of the line after being wounded was blown up. An American Legion post is named for him. Figure No. 2 is a lad named O'Rourke who came to Boston from Brooklyn, N. Y., and died in battle in France a few days after filling his wet socks over the camp fire. He never lived long enough to learn that it always rained at the front and socks were always wet. Figure No. 3 is Timothy V. Keating, of Dorchester, who survived heavy fighting. No. 4 is "Bashful Isay" an unknown. They were exciting days for thousands of Boston boys.

SENDER HEIGHT IS STYLISTS' DEBICHT -- WAY TO LOVELY, APPROPRIATE PICTURES

1934 Fashions Perfect for Slimness

By Victoria Gaines

(Authentic last-minute fashions from New York style center of America)

IF YOU'RE "SLIM," supple and divinely tall—"willow" is the word our old-fashioned novelists would have used—then you're one of the pampered pets of fortune and fashion. For you're the smart ideal of the season—you're what the Merry Widow was to the Gay Nineties or the Southern Belle was to Colonial days. For you stylized at up during sleepless nights and designers tear out their hair by handfuls—your 1934's Big Moment!

All you have to do is to take the modern mode "as is" and let it work its magic way with you. There's that sensation of the spring season, for example, the "windblown" silhouette that Schiaparelli must have invented in a moment of temporary insanity. Not one woman in three wears it successfully—although such is the power of Paris that probably all ten will try! Neither the short nor the slender, nor the big-breasted, nor the willow woman can! What could be more fascinating to her than the "windblown" mode? The flared skirts and fullness gathered at the waist of this "windblown" mode.

STREAMLINED MODES

Or in the field of evening fashions, who but a Garbo or a Marjorie can carry off the streamlined, skirt-trimmed modes of the moment, whose subtle drapings serve only to reveal instead of conceal the underlying contours. And even the softer, fluffier evening frocks of summer play right up to her, for only the stately style can wear a certain type of robe of style that demands the sweep of stiff fabrics like taffeta and, ordinarily, a "tailor" sweep of skirt.

Spring sportswear, too, makes low before the tip of the maypole. In the new coats and suits of contrasting woolens, bright checks and plaids that might make a race track a little less contrast with skirts of plain color—a combination that is "made in heaven" for the tall, slim woman. No one else can wear contrasting colors and bright, light-topped frocks, bright blouses and dark skirts, bright sweaters and jackets—all so often her too-angular attire.

HEIGHT-CUTTING LINE

Of one thing—and one thing only—must the Gothic-type girl beware—and that is the line that accentuates her already small height. That is why she should select styles and lines that cut across her figure—thin, trim, dressy, for example, the quarter sweater coats so smart just now, wide bands of contrasting color or deep fur borders on her coats.

And if there is still a woman left, in this day of starvation diets, who is not pretty thin (especially around the arms and shoulders—consider the picture of the slim woman's figure) that she wishes to disguise her slender lines, she can do so by means of shoulder yokes, caplets, bertha collars and wide, flowing sleeves.

Imperial Russian Vanities

PERHAPS BARBARA MCVAN and her prince have been responsible for the recently noticed yea for popularity of anything that smacks of royalty, with the accompanying crown, tiara and diadem. The newest vanity cases show the double eagle and crown, the Russian shield, the cross and scepter, St. George and the dragon, and the crowned eagle—all luxurious emblems of a bygone imperialistic day. And buyers confess there is a thrill of pride in carrying and exhibiting one of these admittedly lovely and artistic cases.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

By Carol Ames

IF YOU DON'T know how to manicure your nails at home successfully, perhaps use artists will help you. The first step is to soak the finger tips in very warm sudsy water. A small glass bowl is the best for this. Soak one hand at a time, because if you don't one will dry while you are "doing" the other.

When a bar of good toilet soap gets too small to use effectively I throw it into this quart jar of water. I keep handy. When I'm ready for a manicure I have liquid soap which can quickly be washed into suds.

File the nails with a coarse-emery bar to the shape and length you prefer. Don't file to the side of the nail. Start at the side and file toward the center. This makes it easier to shape the nails and doesn't encourage hangnails. After filing them, smooth off the rough edges with the finer side of the emery board. You can buy these emery boards stuck in packages, and dip it into a bottle of cuticle remover. Take a tiny bit of cotton and twist it on the end of the stick. Don't forget to get the stick right off the cotton wool side.

Dip the cotton on the tip of the stick into a cuticle remover and gently scrub the cuticle back and forth from the nail. Wipe off the dead cuticle with a soft piece of cotton. Use a new one for each finger.

Then with another cotton-cup dipped in cuticle remover clean under the nails carefully. Then wash the hands with warm water. Three minutes is long enough to let the "remover" stay on the fingers.

Remove the old nail polish with polish remover. To do this use a small piece of cotton, or better still another cotton-cup. As the remover has a rather disagreeable odor.

Now take a bottle of polish and with the small camel-hair brush attached to the cork, paint the nails carefully. It is quite the fad now to keep the polish off the half moons. In fact, some of the debutantes this year paint the half moons silver and the red of the nail silver and the red in the nail pink or rose red. To do this you must be very careful of the picture you are painting, so you won't smudge your paint. The silver nail polish is a little too much for me, but very beautiful hands it "gets by." I wouldn't say it does much more than that.

There are, in colors, natural nail colors, and some that are colorless, silver, gold, and a polish that shines like diamonds.

St. Valentine Party Must Be Gay

By Martha Lee

From Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

HOLIDAYS ARE COMING quickly now, and it is time to prepare for that Valentine Party. Saint Valentine has a right to be honored as highly as Lincoln, or Washington, for he is a famous diplomat also, and in much more delicate matters.

There are many old customs that pertain to the day—for instance the first man a girl sees in the morning outside of her family is to be her future husband, or a more complicated pep into the future might be had by eating, before going to sleep, a hard-cooked egg with the yolk removed and the center filled with salt and thereby dreaming of the lucky man.

In this day and age these all sound a wee bit old fashioned and I am not sure. However, while we do smile at these customs, there is one old idea that we have clung to because it does work without any of this "beating about the bush." We know that the way to a man's heart is still through the center of his stomach.

Here is a menu for a Valentine party. It will probably turn out to be an evening affair, with the main of the species present, and you will want to carry out the color scheme in red or pink. (In other words, we have other suggestions worked out for children's parties, but if you are a girl like copies. Send stamped addressed envelope to Martha Lee, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.)

Pandora Tells You

DEAR PANDORA—My husband and I have been married for 30 years and until recently have been very happy. I think that a 30th anniversary party to that item is the fact that my husband and I have never argued a day in our lives. He was quick to invent, quick to make friends, quick to respond to any hum or a friendly impulse. He believed all people O K until proven otherwise and the greatest faith was in his banker. The bank failed. Now he thinks that everyone and everything is a doubtful quantity. He is slow to accept introductions, never pets a dog and has retired within himself, analyzing everything. He looks at me with a critical glance that I never noticed before.

I've tried heavy parlor, and everything, but I'm 56. What to do? MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER

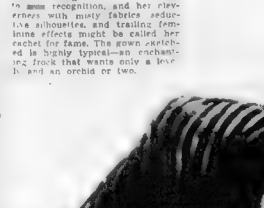

How tall is he? When did he ever let? Who depended on the banker? Where does he get off? Look at him, right in that little valley between his eyes, and smile slightly. He understands. PANDORA.

A Black Chiffon Setting

By PRINELLA WOOD

GOOD American names easily pronounced (and attached to a school or college name) are rolling off smart women's tongues during post-Valentine days. The number of youthful, successful American women who are making good as designers grows greater and more important every day, and already connoisseurs are able to distinguish these persons, as they can detect a Schiaparelli from Vionnet, with the look of an eye.

Muriel King was one of the first to make recognition, and her cleverness with many fabric reduction, silhouette, and trailing feminine effects must be called her secret for fame. The gown pictured is highly typical—an enchanting frock that wants only a lovely and an orchid or two.

Satin-striped black chiffon, with a luscious flowing skirt and a matching capelet that can be worn a dozen ways, makes this gown.

"Ladies Only" Dinner

By MRS. BECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN

I am going to give a dinner party for ladies only. Does the honor guest sit to the right of the hostess under those circumstances?

CONSTANT READER

1. Yes, this would be the best place.
2. This depends on how you use the top of the larger one. The guests enjoy the "Ladies Only" dinner after dinner, and now, if they are to be the hostess, she is getting out of a bridge table, a ready way to solve it. The way most hostesses now solve it—providing the table with cards and inviting those who wish to play bridge or whatever they wish to talk together won't be deterred by the bridge players any more than the bridge players will be deterred by the conversation.

3—No, not necessarily. You might get white, which have been beaten until stiff but not dry. Continue beating until the mixture is cool and can be spread on the cake.

DEAR MOTHER

How tall is he? When did he ever let? Who depended on the banker? Where does he get off? Look at him, right in that little valley between his eyes, and smile slightly. He understands. PANDORA.

MILLS HELPFUL TO NRA, SAYS RICHBERG

New York, Feb. 8.—Ogden L. Mills was classified as a defender of the "discredited system" in which profits came first, with higher wages paid only when higher profits have been achieved, in a speech last night by Donald R. Richberg, addressing the Economic Club of New York at the Hotel Astor, the general counsel of the NRA.

Addressing the Economic Club of New York at the Hotel Astor, the general counsel of the NRA answered at length the speech made recently in Topeka, Kan., by Mills, former secretary of the Treasury.

He turned his attention to Mills as a "helpful critic from the right" after disposing of other NRA critics as "growing neurones and routine Communists," both without political programs and without power to inspire public confidence.

Mills declared he was not opposed to the Recovery Act, Richberg asserted, but "only to its extension far beyond what its original conception ought to have been."

The former cabinet member then expounded as his counter program the harmonizing of the self-expression and liberty of the individual with the preservation of individual liberty and the advancement of the general welfare, as we have found a way that leads definitely in that direction.

INTRIGUES CRITICISM

"Mr. Mills wants to find 'some way' but he doesn't take our way because he doesn't see the conception of a planned and directed national economy is destructive of the most fundamental principles upon which the American people rest."

"Here Mr. Mills is evidently speaking his profound convictions because he has sacrificed himself and all his fellow countrymen upon the altar of that faith, standing immovable for years in an administration which was so opposed to planning and directing our national economy that our entire economic system was allowed to roll down hill until we arrived at a complete collapse of private banking on the very day when Mr. Mills turned over the treasury to men who believed that it was better to plan and to direct the course of our affairs than to let them go smash."

"What Mr. Mills really means is that he is opposed to a socially planned economy brought about and administered by a democratic organization of mass interests."

POSITION MADE 'VIVID'

The former secretary's position is made even more vivid, Richberg declared, "by an editorial from his staunch ally William Randolph Hearst, the publisher."

Mr. Hearst, Richberg said, "praises Mr. Mills for insisting that higher wages and reduced hours for labor must wait until they can be paid out of increased profits of business."

Under this system of "profits first," Richberg asserted, "the needs of the masses were subordinated to the greed and self-seeking of the privileged classes, with a few people making huge fortunes while millions starved at a miserable existence."

Brandeis Book Revives Jurist's Fight on J. P. Morgan

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Boston friends of Justice Louis D. Brandeis have received advance copies of his "new" book, "Other People's Money."

The book is not new, it is a collection of magazine articles he wrote 20 years ago, just after he had gained national fame by his exposure of the Ballinger land frauds, the insurance trust, and the New England railroad deals.

And it is "new." The same Mr. Murphy he then expressed conates from the White House now. The Roosevelt government has adopted the devices Brandeis then urged to regulate speculation and banking.

Mr. Brandeis explained it: "J. P. Morgan (or a partner), a director to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, causes that company to sell to J. P. Morgan & Co. as issue of bonds, J. P. Morgan & Co. borrow the money with which to pay for the bonds from the Guaranty Trust Co., of which Mr. Morgan (or a partner) is a director."

J. P. Morgan and Co. sell the insurance company, of which

Mr. Morgan (or a partner) is a director. The New Haven spends the proceeds of the bonds in purchasing steel rails from the United States Steel Corp., of which Mr. Morgan (or a partner) is a director.

Justice Brandeis was remorseless, whether justly or not, to the banking fraternity. He declared that bankers, as such, had never financed any of the vital inventions which have proved of great merit to society. The telephone, he says, was financed by a couple of small businessmen in Havillville, Mass., because of their affection for Bell after the banks had declined to make any sort of loan.

Brandeis recommended that directors of interlocking corporations be forbidden by law from making contracts for the purchase of supplies and equipment from each other. This the Roosevelt administration has done, to some extent, under the NRA code.

An Evening Among the Gnomes; George Gives McCready a Lesson

By AUSTEN LAKE

Washburn Performs Again for Boston Fans

EARL MCCREADY, the old hog shooter from Oklahoma who studied his barnyard acrobatics at the same agricultural school where Charley Strack learned to moo, grunt and cackle, gave a routine example of his art at the Boston Garden last night, where he was worried down by Don George after 84 minutes and 47 seconds of wrestling. This failed to astonish anyone, including McCready, who is a bulky youth of rye bread color, and he took his defeat with good grace, promising to drop around again sometime. It was a usual evening among the gnomes, in which there was physical suffering enough to please the crowd who watched the great hunks of meat being hurled back and forth on the mat fold up to the final clatter, although none of the wrestlers appeared to be injured more than 50-cent's worth, which was the fee charged to peek down from the gallery, a spot much favored by music lovers because of the rising tendency of sound effects. There were moments during the early part of the match when McCready would clasp his flying scissors around George's withers and go bonking around the ring, one arm free and flapping in approved rodeo form, and then the two would be thrown back to the gallery like the mournful beating of distant surf.

McCready Has Trouble With His Skin

BUT McCready would always fall off after galloping George a fast furlong or two and he would have to get up and mount all over again, clanking his legs like huge and hairy carriages, so lightly about George's slippery middle that his knees sometimes sank clear out of sight and threatened to crease the champion's stomach in a permanent wave. Then George would suddenly roll back his lip in a snickering whinny, snatch the hook undergrowth on Earl's chest and stretch his skin around his shoulders like a Fairy shawl, so that Earl would have to let go his grip to snatch back his skin a fold at a time, which had him pretty well wrinkled before the end of the program and made his hide several sizes too large for his frame. This caused some concern to Mr. Dave Egan, the sports authority, who was sitting in the working press row with his chin propped on the apron of the ring, and as McCready went by with his skin flapping loosely around his ankles, Mr. Egan suggested why did he not take the skin off entirely and wrestle in the raw.

McCready thanked Mr. Egan kindly and said he thought the skin would shrink back to a fair fit by next Sunday, whereas if he took the skin off now it might shrivel down several sizes too small before he could get back into it. So McCready went on wrestling, good naturedly keeping up his flesh like a skirt and making the best of things, which by this time were none too good. And that is why I say he was really worried more into defeat than beaten by George's physical betterment.

It was an evening of reunion in which such an old favorite as Gentleman Jack Washburn came back after some light Western wrestling to keep the oil in his joints liquid. Gentleman Jack huffed and puffed a few waltzes with a young debutante named Al Peckham, of the Dorchester Peckhams, until Peckham decided to sit the rest of the dance out because his feet began to hurt after a prolonged session in which the Gentleman had wrung out his toes as a kitchen biddy wrings out a mop cloth. Mr. Paul Bowser, the impresario, who sits snugly under the press shelf, rose and courteously offered to warm up another wrestler if Washburn desired to walk a little more.

"Very decent of you, indeed," replied Washburn, in his best Southern style, "but really I am a trifle fatigued. But none the less, thank you kindly."

Gen. Bonaventura, who has been serving some of the mid-western agencies of the Bowser loop, got himself lost in the uncharted wilds of St. Louis and failed to appear for his engagement.

MOO! The Earl of Oklahoma sees a calf! with Pat McKill. Which was a pity, because the bout would have held all the aspects of a Webster and Fields revival. But Pat submitted his fattest calves to Yvon Robert, or Ezevoh Errobb-har, and after making a series of wild heaves, which caused Mr. Egan to begin yelling for a new pitcher, Monk, Errobb-har chided Pat with a body press.

The evening scaled to new heights of wrestling glory, but then it was not framed as a gala occasion so much as an average Thursday evening among the gnomes. There was enough anguish to satisfy the patron, but hardly enough pasture to satisfy Paul Bowser. But by the time the lights were blown out, around 12 o'clock, there was enough satisfaction to give everybody a little, and what Mr. Bowser was short at the gate he made up in the thought of having added some brightness in the drab lives of several thousand faithful customers.

RUTH CASHES IN ON TRUST FUND

Ruth Cash has crossed the invisible rubicon that separates the illusion of youth and the reality of middle age. Ruth celebrated her fortieth birthday, quietly, moderately, but with a certain degree of satisfaction.

The large was derived from the fact that the trust fund, for which he has been contributing a good share of his $500,000 to $100,000 each year, began paying the "big boy" back with a check for the moment he reached 40. The first payment, said to be in the neighborhood of $17,500, therefore has been realized. So that though Mr. Ruth may have fallen in value to the comparatively lowly $25,000 he is to draw from the Yankees this season, he is not in line for any immediate worry.

Ruth's greatest thrill in baseball history, that home run he "called" against Charley Root at Chicago in the 1923 Series—the lone one in the center field stands. First he pointed to the stands; then he hit the ball there.

His only regret, he added, was that soon he would have to step down as an active player. "But," he went on, vigorously, "it may not be as soon as some people seem to think. I'll play at least 100 games this year. If I go good—and I don't see why I shouldn't—I ought to be worth something to the club in 1941. I feel just the same. I just can't run as far or as fast. But that's age, and I'm ready for it."

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP)—The Ruth, looking a bit worse for his recent illness, paused here this morning just long enough to change from a train to his automobile, which he had sent ahead by coach, and, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth, set out for St. Petersburg.

Egan has about recovered from his attack of the gripe.

Red Sox Refuse to Bid For Jimmy Foxx

By JOE CASHMAN

Eddie Collins warns Boston fans against entertaining the pleasant vision that Jimmy Foxx's salary argument may result in the slugging first-sacker of the Athletics playing for the Red Sox this season.

It being common knowledge that the Sox made a staggering offer for the Maryland maceur last fall, the Thursday report from Miami that the Mackian star had joined the hotshot ranks, because of a 30 per cent. salary cut, naturally gave rise to the hope that the Yaww-ward might talk back. But General Manager Eddie Collins has said plenty of cold water on such optimism.

SELL NO MORE "I know nothing of Foxx's contract or demands except what I read in the papers," the Sox boss stated. "But I'm sure that as soon as Jimmy and Connie get together, everything will be quickly straightened out. I've had many dealings with both and just can't picture the pair sitting down and agreeing to disagree."

"And even if I'm wrong about that, it wouldn't improve our chances of getting Foxx in the slightest degree."

"Mack has announced he'll sell no more of his stars this season, knowing him as I do, I'm satisfied that nothing will make him change his mind. Jimmy will play for the A's or not at all."

"So, as much as I would like to see the young giant cavorting around the initial sack at the Fens, I wouldn't spend three cents for a stamp to make another offer for him."

It is alleged, received $50,000 for the past three seasons and has been asked to take a cut of more than 30 percent. If that is true, he has plenty cause to come out for a stamp to make another offer for him.

HUSTON WOULD BUY DODGERS

Albany, Feb. 9 (AP)—Col. T. B. Hughes, Jr., of the New York Yankees, is willing to buy the Brooklyn Dodgers, but not for $10,000,000, as an authoritative source today said.

It is known that Huston told three Boston boys he would buy the club for him any time the price was low enough to permit him to buy a new pair of slippers. The price was $10,000,000, but he said he would not buy it if it was less than $10,000,000.

WITH THE BRAVES Judge Fuchs returned to Braves headquarters at the Tower today. He failed to get to first base in his efforts to trade with the magnates who attended the National League schedule meeting in New York.

"The other club owners seem to be making the same mistake as many of the critics as I fear," said the judge. "They think because we are in the market for players, we must have them to get anywhere. Consequently, they figure they can hold me up for any of my piling error."

"The truth is that we're not buying any players. We're just showing signs of returning to the form we were in dire need of strength in any position. We could use another reserve or two, but we're certainly not going to give any regulars in return for them. And we'll lose little sleep if we never get them."

ISN'T IT SO?

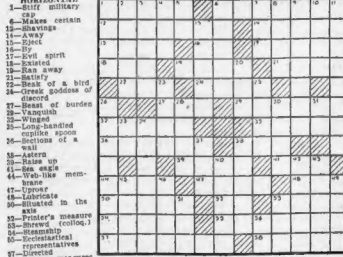

About all men leave these days when they die is a large family. Reason governs a wise man and fun a fool.

Every man's house is his castle as long as he remains a bachelor. It's a case of true love when a woman cleans her husband's pipes.

All men are equal—when they are broke. Sympathy is never satisfying to an empty stomach.
